Records Fall!

The 1974 football version of the "War Hornets" had one of the best campaigns ever at Hapeville. The record for the most wins was tied with the 7-3 record posted this season. Behind the powerful wishbone offense the team broke the school scoring record by earning 204 points, breaking the old record by 5 points. The Atlanta Constitution honored David Albright, Larry Burns, Dannie Chastine, Jimmy Lovern, Randy Hood, Henry Dawkins, and Paul Rintye during the year by naming them to its Prep Honor Roll.

Halftime Shows — More Than Meets the Eye!

Half time shows . . .

— marching in the rain
— dancing to "Rock around the Clock"
— twirling with FIRE
— paying tribute to America
— wearing feet out practicing — displaying shiny new uniforms
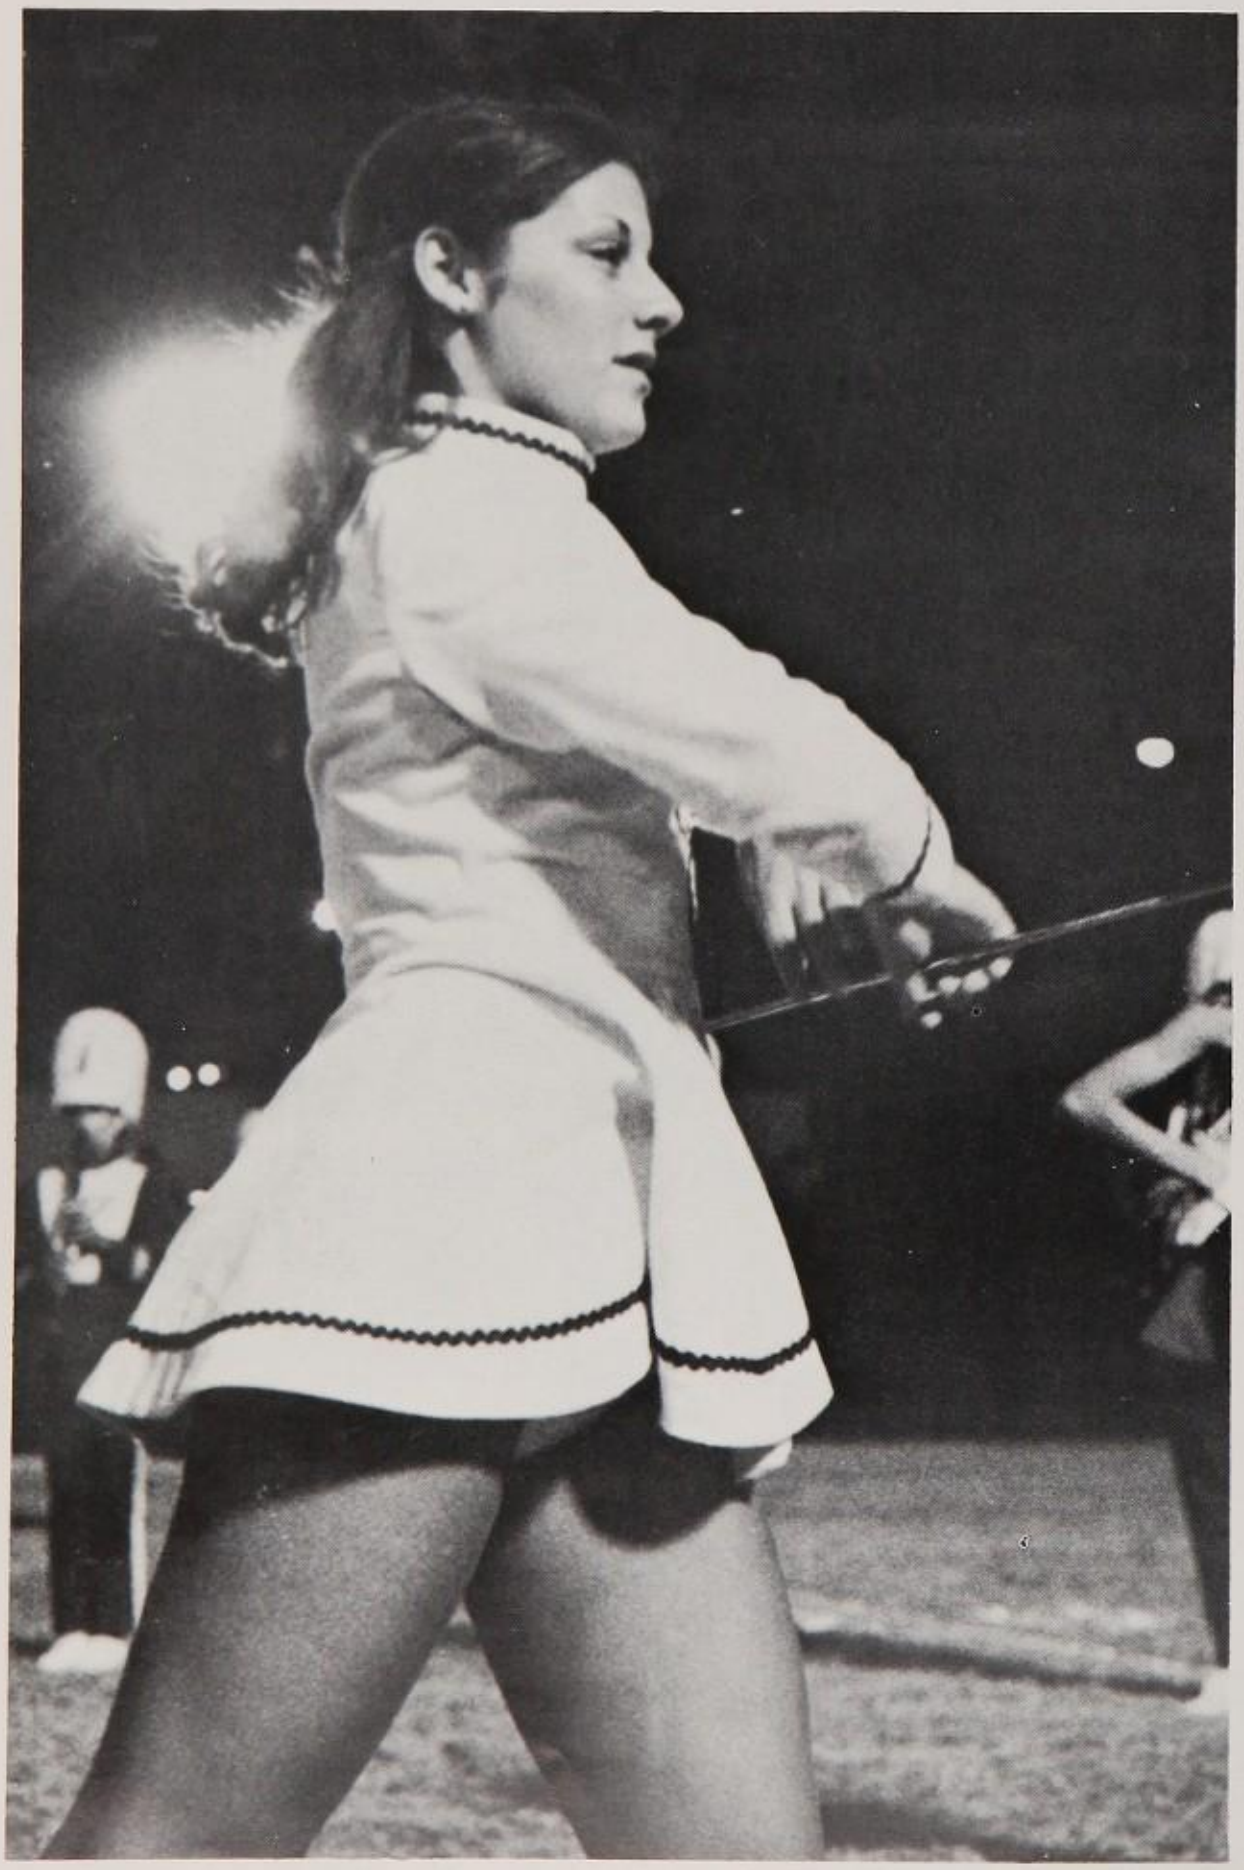
— drilling, drilling, drilling
— (most Of all) the excitement of perfection!



Takes A Lot of Go

It all started last spring: learning cheers, getting together, stretching muscles, raising money for the first goal- -camp. Beginning the season, the work continued: drudging through the practices, fitting into ill-fitted uniforms, making the bus on time, voting on major issues, dreaming up new pep rally ideas, and cheering the team on to a school record. Yes "It takes a lot of go, to keep up the show."

The B-team cheerleaders proved to be the youngest and smallest squad ever at H.H.S. The smallest weighed in at 80 pounds and measured 4 feet, 11 inches while the tallest reached at the stunning height of 5 feet. 6 inches. Another point of distinction to their credit was their winning of a red ribbon for excellence on the first day of evaluation at summer camp. Trying out new cheers, experimenting with complicated stunts and "limbering up" taught the girls the never ending job of being a cheerleader.

Basketball Homecoming was highlighted around spirit theme, with each of the classes having a wall in the gym for posters. Talent Developed, Experience Gained

The B-team basketball season was a learning period for members of the boys' team. Due to undeveloped talent and lack of playing time, the Hornets suffered through a slow start. However, as Coach Tony Cook foresees after his first year at the helm, the experience gained will prove to be an asset to future teams at Hapeville.

In the case of our girls' teams, the B-team is used as a stepping stone to the Varsity. All B-teamers were members of the Varsity Squad. They played well and enjoyed a record above .500. Young players of the Varsity gained precious playing time while on the B-team.

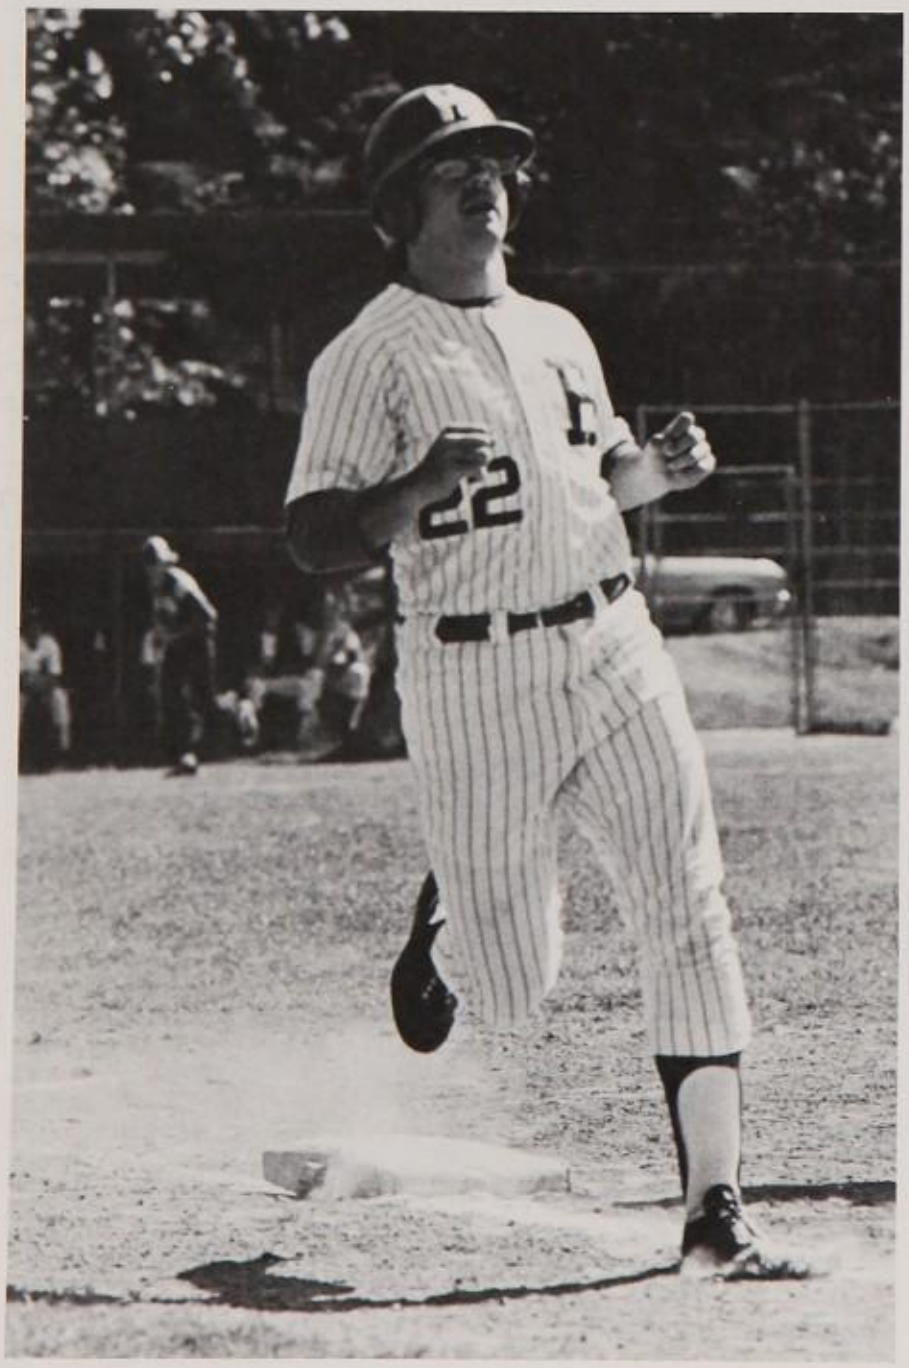
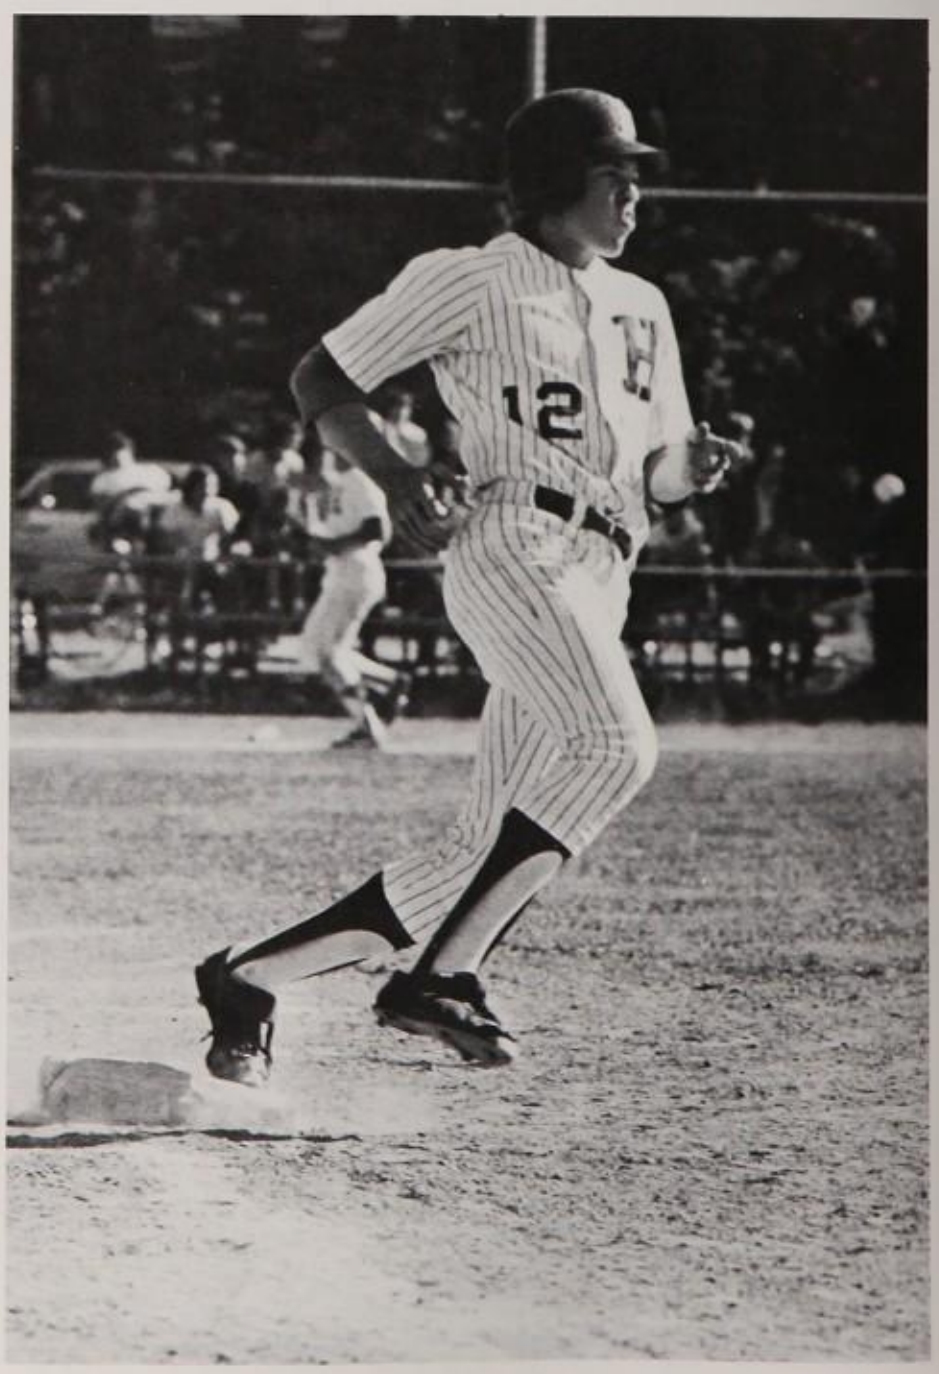
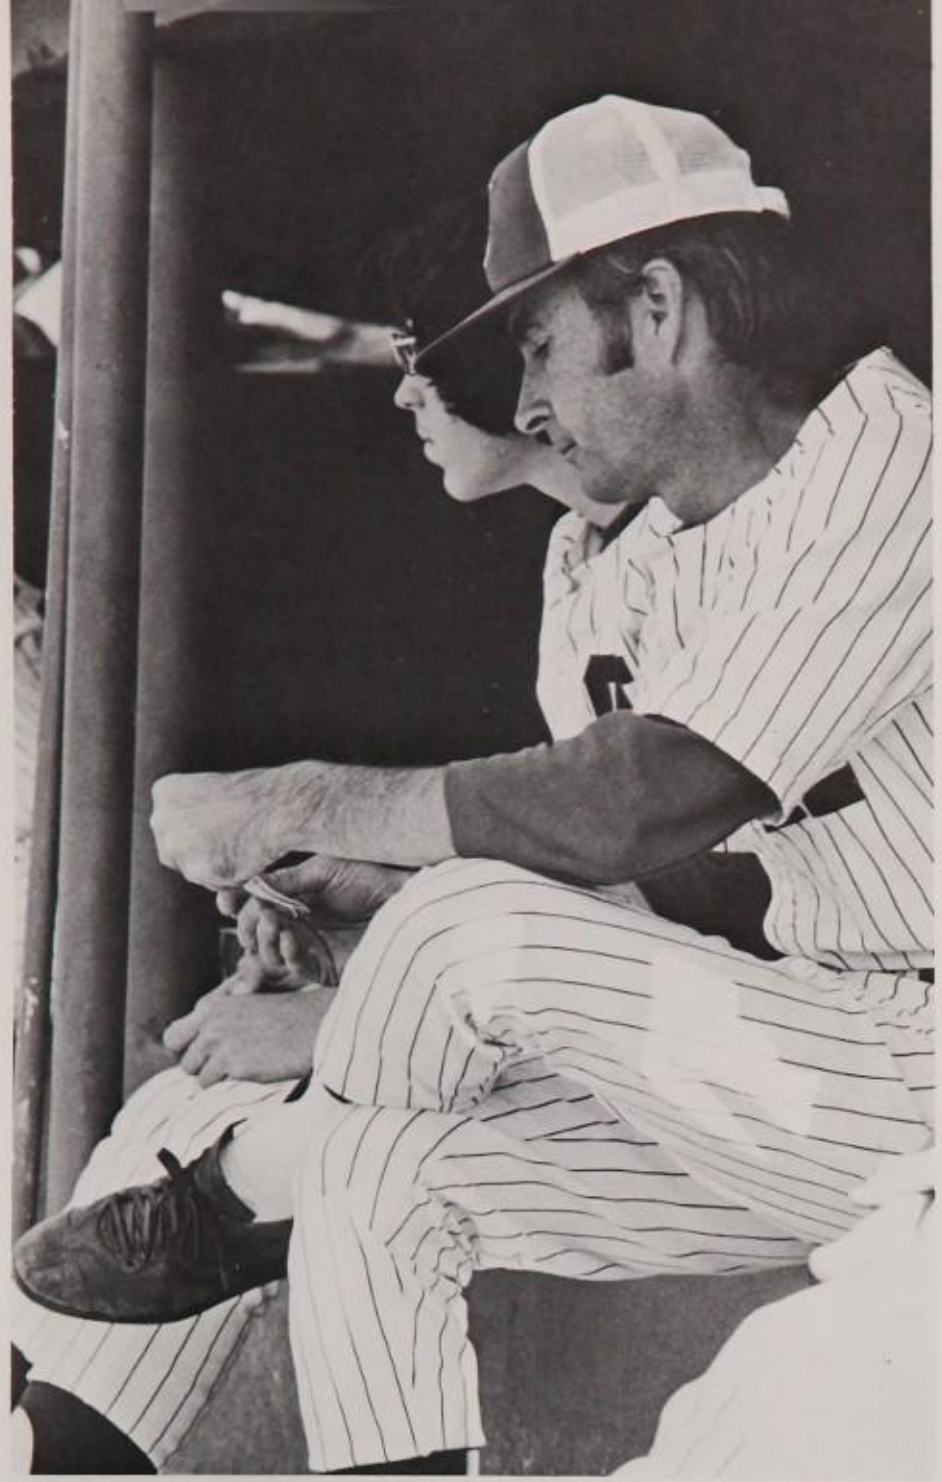
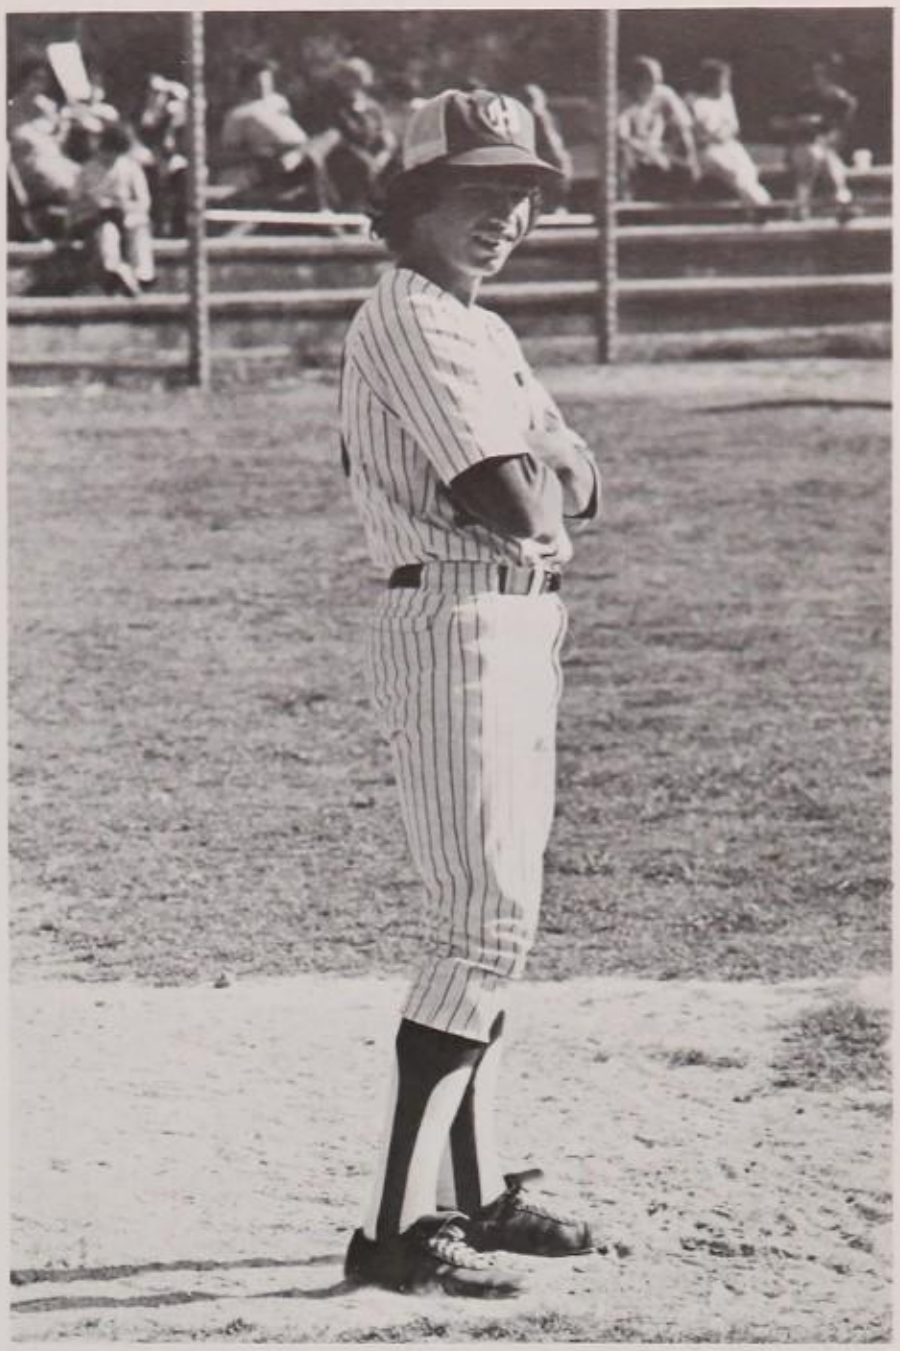
Ol' Sluggers Rebuild

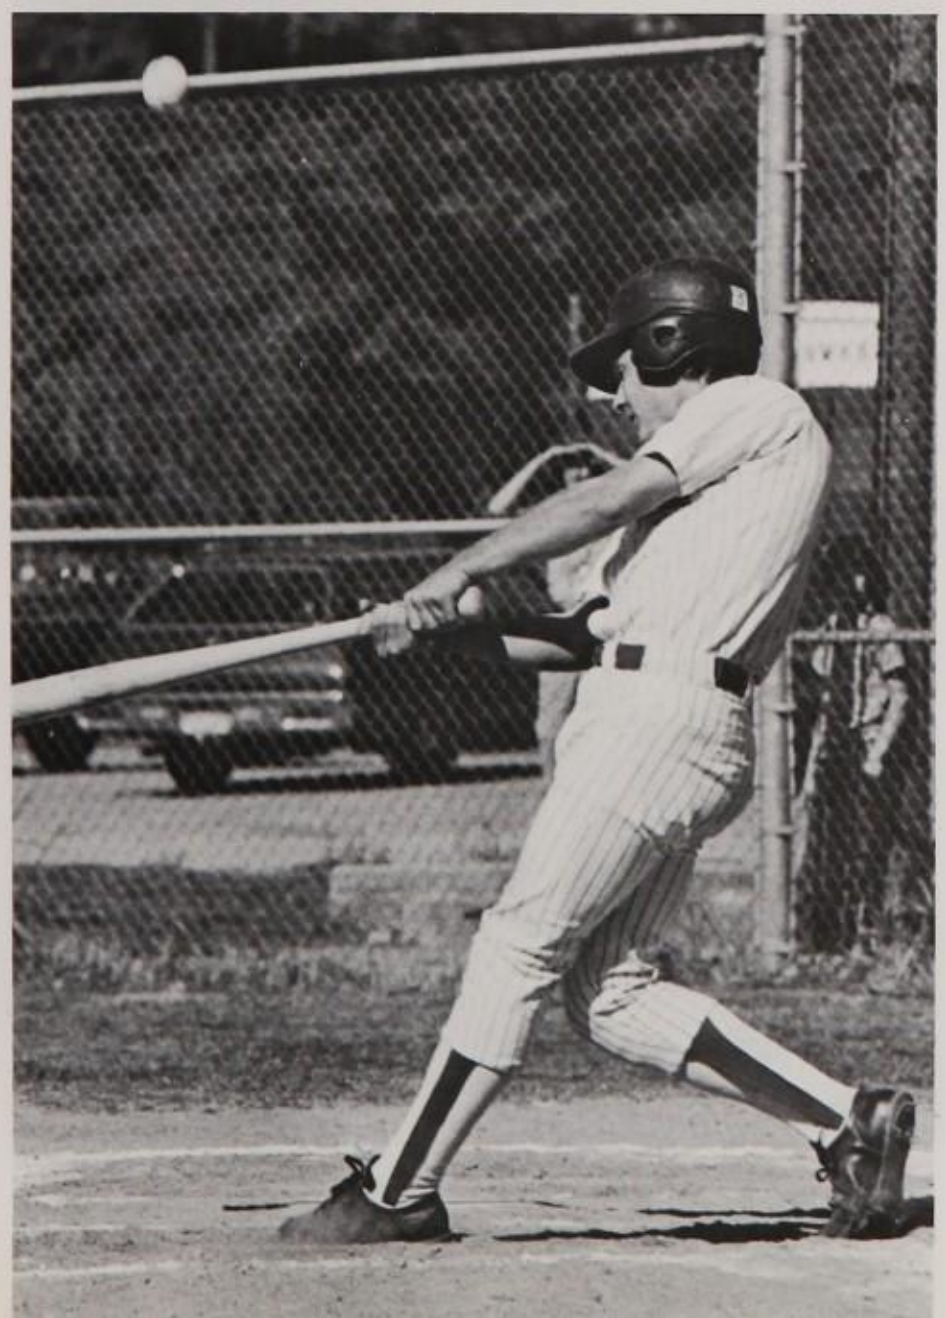
Coming off a 15-4 regular season record, the baseball team continued under head coach Ed Daniel. After losing many seniors last year, the "ol' sluggers" had to meet the challenge of developing new team leadership and gaining experience in many young players. But, as Coach Daniel says, "Win, lose, or draw, it's how you play the game."

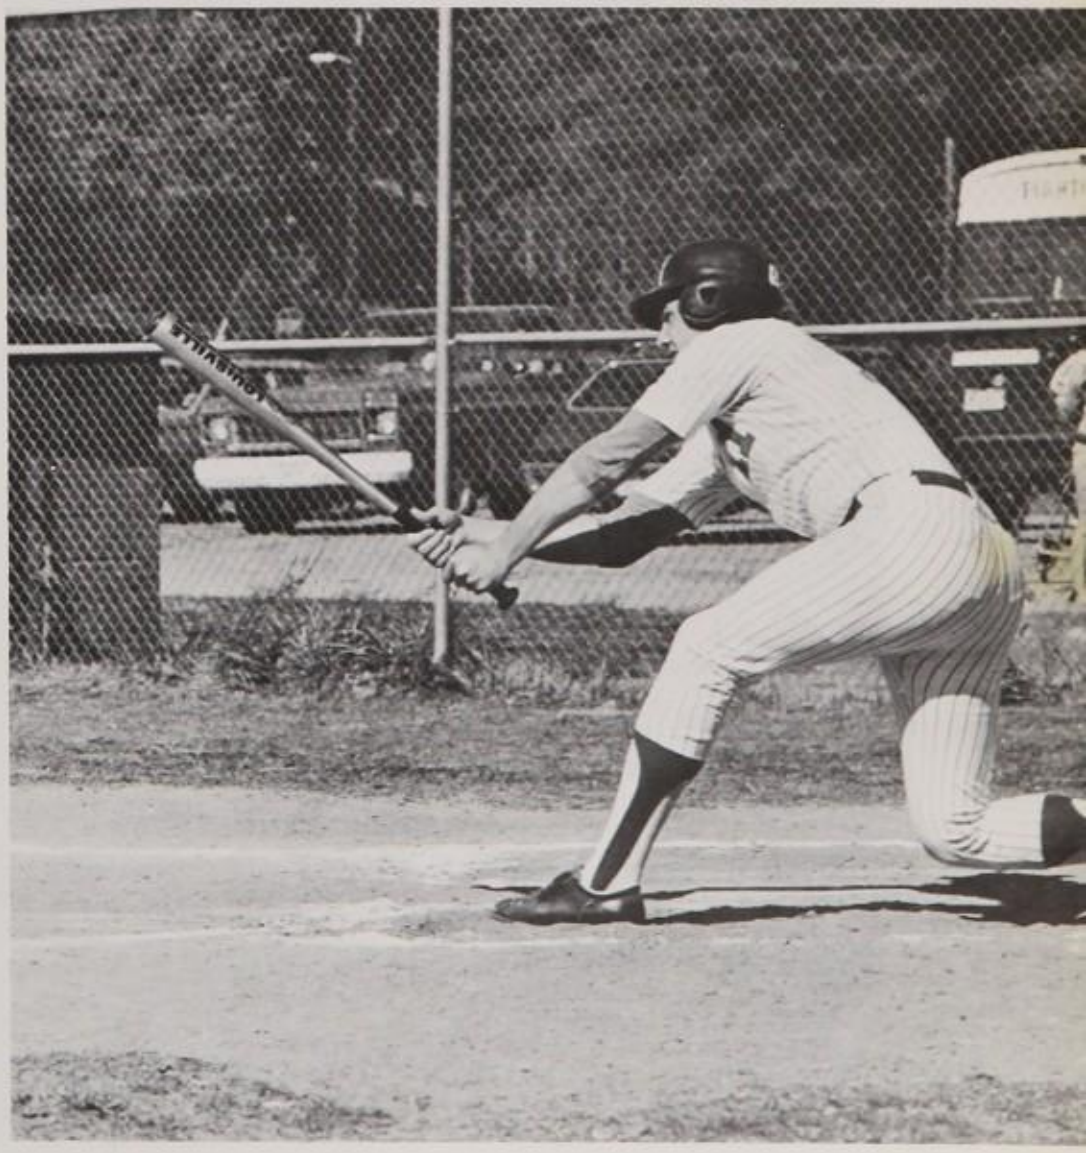












Tennis — the Up and Comer

This year's tennis teams came into the year short of people but high on spirits. The boys' team, coming off of a 7-2 season had two returning lettermen: #1 Jimmy Lovern and #2 David Hinson. The girls' team, who finished 2nd in the region tournament, have five returning lettermen: Valerie Haney, Sallie Watkins, Robin King, Kristy Smith and Cindy Glozier. The coaches were Martha Teer and Rod Chatham.

World's Greatest Bargain — "The Li-Berry"

What kind of berry is a "li-berry"? Seriously, the library is one of the most practical and valuable resources available to the students of Hapeville High. It can be used for diligent work on a research paper or for passing a free period by thumbing a magazine or taking a nap. Either way, it's a good deal. (And an added attraction is the slim chance of getting one of Mrs. Mowbray's cookies.)

Social Studies Explores Old and New Worlds

Political events, geography, economic procedures, history: all vital parts of social studies. Not only does one learn of past happenings but also how people in the past lived together, how they ran their governments, how they progressed through the years, and how they, by enduring, waiting, anticipating, came to be us. At H.H.S., students can realize the importance, in their lives, of studying the past. Truth and patience characterize the Social Studies Department at H.H.S.

Science Department Offers Experimental Programs

H.H.S. is one of only five schools in Fulton County offering three new courses in science. Applied chemistry, applied physical science, and environmental science are experimental courses designed to eliminate general science and give academic credit. These new courses, along with the established ones, are offered to help students better understand the world around them, and to teach an orderly process of problem-solving.

Business Education — Where Practice Means Profits

For students with an eye on a career in a business office, the place where they can get the most help at H.H.S. is on the upstairs back wing of the building. There, in Rooms 204, 208, and 209 are the teachers and business equipment which help coeds in this still-female-dominated field gain the knowledge they need. It is a credit to the department that employees actively seek H.H.S. people for full and part time help.

Help for the Working Student

Diversified Cooperative Training teaches the student about work and other practical aspects of life. These things include how to fill out a job application or an income tax form. The students also learn about handling bank accounts. Information about labor unions and government is another part of the training of a D.C.T. student.

Developing skills and creativity are essential in preparing for the future. Creating self confidence and awareness are equally important. All are goals with particular importance in the PVT Department.

Music continued as a popular and rewarding subject for those students who chose to study it. "A Journey of the Mind"

I dreamed of white stallions that ran upon vast and sparkling shores.
Grains of sea oats, like gold medallions, reflecting warm rays of sunlight:
a glimmering haze of brilliance,
whipping and whistling in the balmy breezes.

The sea of irredescent blue, crashed upon grey sand.
Sounding off a hushed melodious thunder, that could be heard far across the land.

You walked upon the water's edge;
your feet bathed in mingling sand and sea.
Your face shown, oh, so radiant, like a soft diffusing sunbeam.

Your thoughts were understanding:
joy was filled from deep within.
For you understood the beauty in living:
now set to find a path to sweet divinity.
The prints of your past he molded in the sand
Before you now awaited a world uncertain to man.

I dreamed of wild white horses playing beside the sea.
I dreamed you found your journey's end,
your soul had found its destiny.

Once we were strolling down Lollipop Lane,
When we came upon the Chocolate Train.
It choo-chooed by without a refrain.

The cellophane flowers
looked up at the sky,
And waved at the
marshmellow clouds
As they went by.

We laughed and played with the gingerbread men.
Even the taffy animals weren't in a wire pen.

We tumbled and rolled
on divinity hills,
Where the rockinghorse people got all their big thrills.

When it was time to say goodbye,
we looked at our friends
And the clouds in the sky;
then we had a cry
That was our good-bye.

Points of View

"Hi. My name is Robbie, and as you can see, I'm a tennis shoe. My mate's name is Josephine; she stays on the left side. We are Converse All-Star's made of genuine burlap and highly refined rubber by-products. Not a speck of cereal. Guaranteed for forty thousand miles or six months. We're the same kind of shoes that Pete Maravich belongs to, but an amateur belongs to us. We play basketball day in and day out.

Never could figure out why they call us 'tennis shoes'. Most people even think it's one word . . . 'TENNISHOE.' I've never played tennis in my life. Can't get no respect!!

Lately I've noticed that Josephine is run-down — she always walks around with her tongue hanging out and, well, she stinks. It's nothing personal, but she needs to talk to the underarm biggie. But worst of all, Josephine just ain't got no sole!

The Life of A Shoney's Bigboy

Well here I lie — my partners are all scattered around the kitchen just waiting their turn to be put ALL together!! UH OH!! — here I go — I'm next — well there went the buns into the oven — the beef patti on the grill — ooooooo it's warm on this thing — all the lettuce, and pickles, and tomatoes, and onions, and special sauce, and the toothpick are anxious to be put on ME — WOW!! Whew — now I'm all done — ready to eat — I wonder who I'm going to?!?!? An old lady who handles me real good — I like those kind — or a big husky man who eats soooooo fast that I can hardly breathe — or could it be . . . Oh no! a little kid — they're so sloppy with me — just tear me up — and gobble me down. Terrible!!!!! Oh, but he's paying for me . . . Yikes!!!! It's the catsup — he bit me . . . he bit me again and again — oh no I'm sliding — hang on whoops there goes tomato and onion — I'll miss ya'll. Blah — I'm dripping all over the plate, all over HIM!! Oh what a mess!! I'm almost gone — only a few more bites. It's such a short and unfulfilling life being a Bigboy — but it is kinda fun. "Goodnight sweet pr . . . "GULP!!!

It's neither wrong nor right.

The jar is there within your reach,
Eat how much you want.
Put on the lid, put it up.
Eat every bite or don't.

Lick it up or smoke it,
Stuff it up your nose.
Share it with good old friends
Or throw it at your foes.

Eat it very late at night,
Crunchy or smooth will do.
And the freedoms and joys of Peanut butter
Will surely come to you.

Time

I wish I could go back into time,
I would change all the wrong that I have done
But it will soon be too late,
For I could die, anytime, any date.
I know if I had tried,
Heaven I would have won.
I pray that God will give me time,
To change the wrong that I have done.

SHAKESPEARE IN REVIEW

To gross, or not to gross — that is the question: whether 'tis nobler to appear in ordinary apparrel, or dress in a gaudy, not rich, attire and suffer the slings and arrows of the unspirited. To experience the thousand natural shocks of those who cloth themselves in gross apparrel and to grunt and sweat under a weavy Congo line. Ay me, what hath the world come to?

Julia Smith

Jeff Dogherty

What a peice of work is man, how uncouth in reason, how limited in knowledge, in form and style, how vain and undesirable in action, how like a devil in avarice, how like a moron: the most grotesque thing on earth; the lowest of vertebrates; and yet to me, what is this slime of malefaction? Man or woman is of no consequece to me.

Love is,

capturing a moment,
sharing it,
then letting it go,
with no regrets, because you have the beauty of the time you shared together.
Love is having memories.

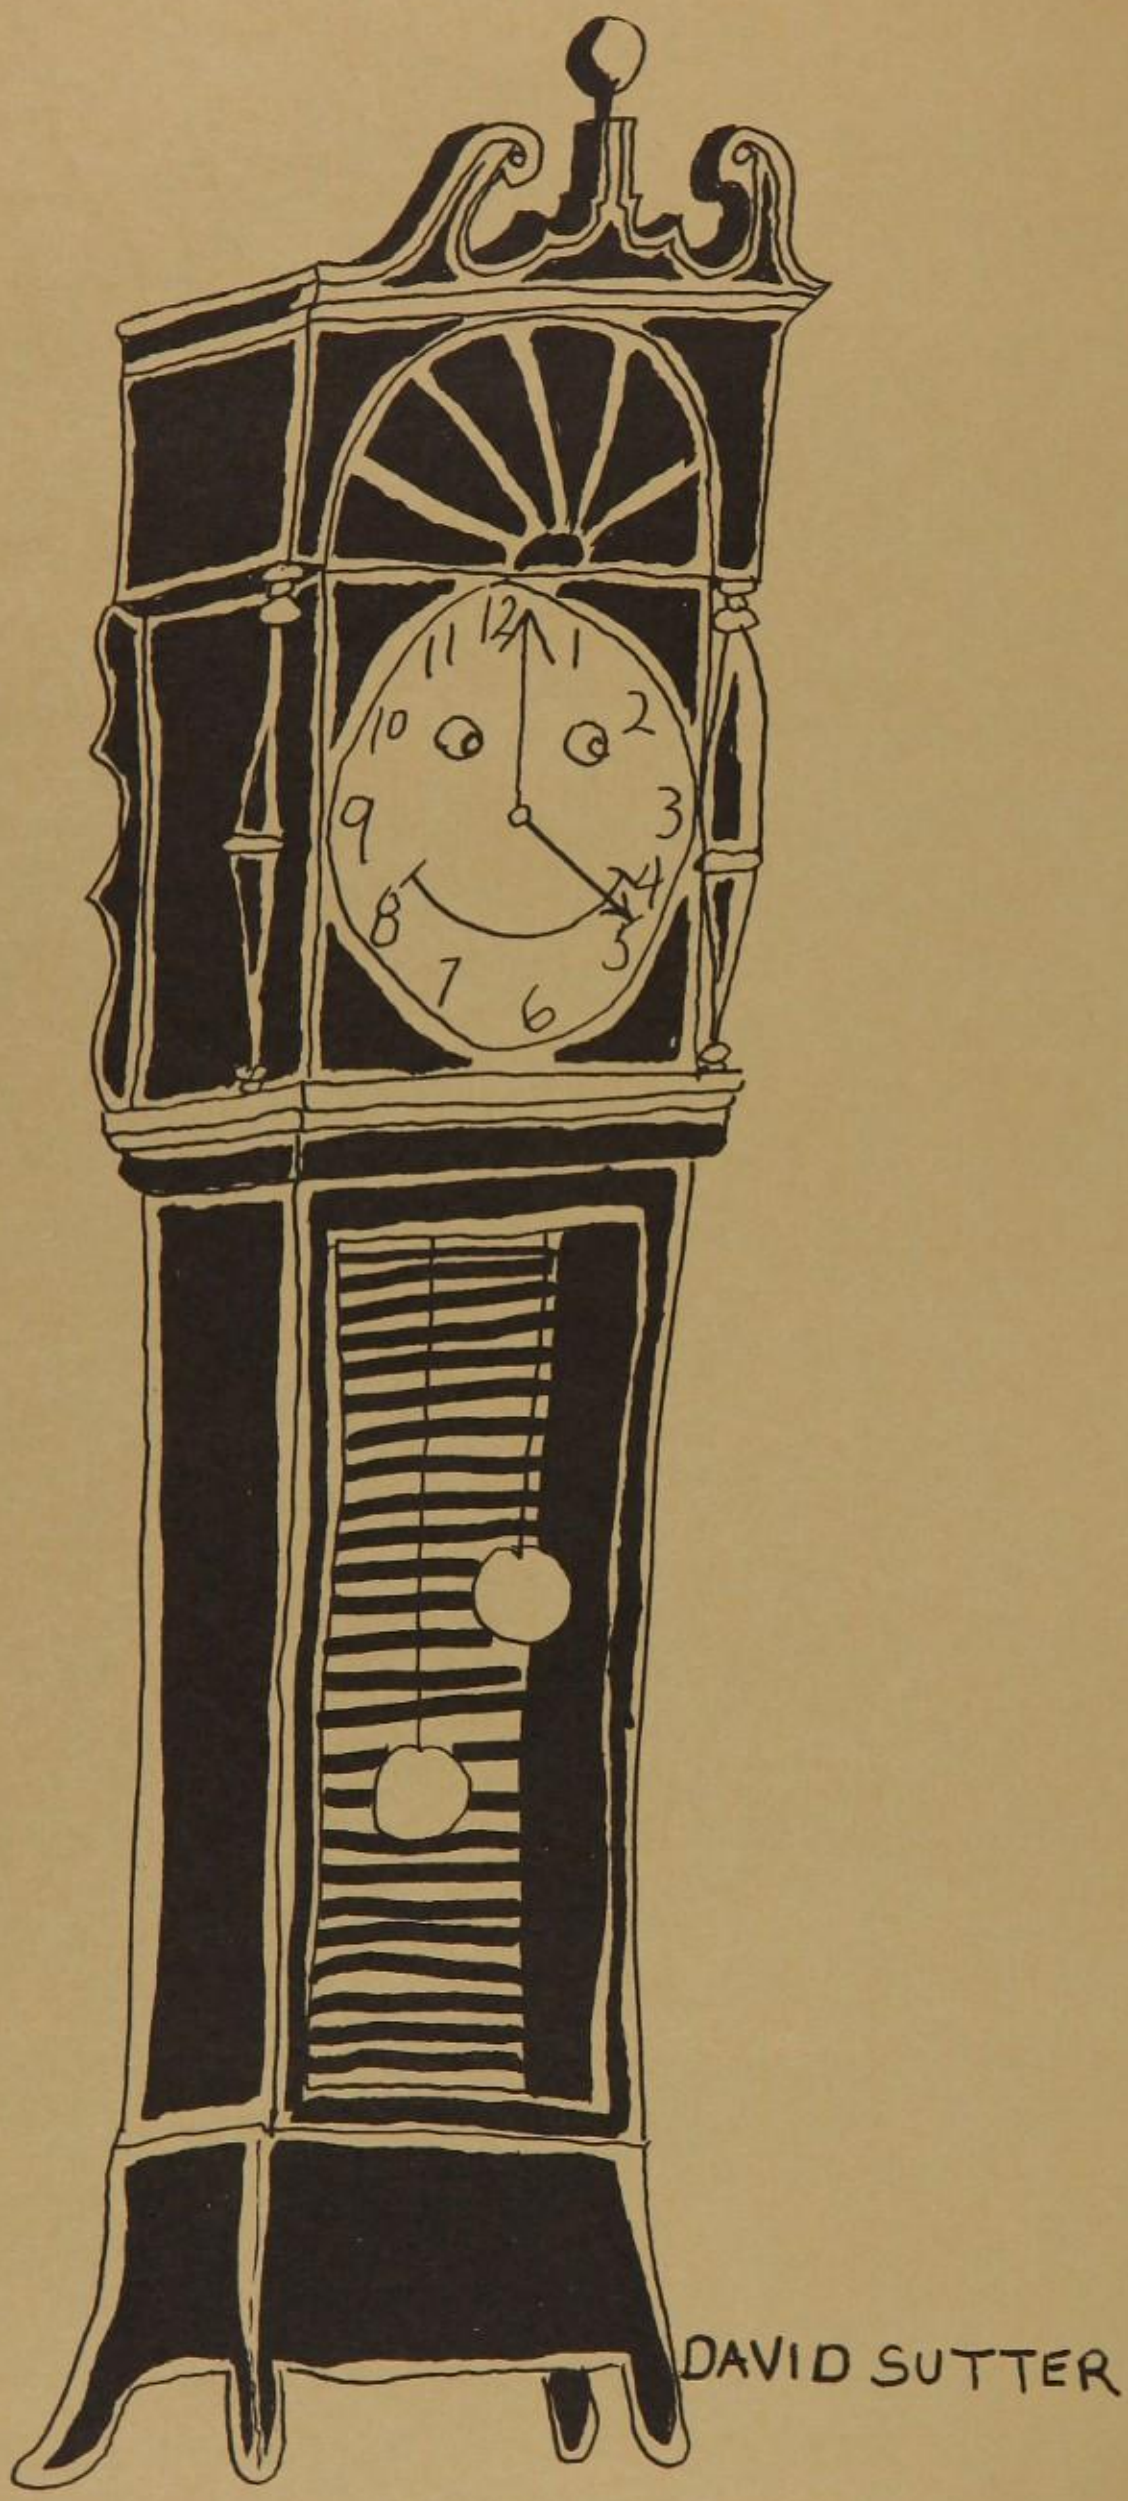
Beginnings

I am the person that follows you around.
Just look around the corner and there I am.
I'm always there when you need help.
But you ask, "Who are you?"

I teach you good, and never bad,
I keep the gentle, and never mad,
I make you happy, and never sad,
But yet do you know, "Who I am?"

I honestly try to make you happy as can be,
I am here, just as I'll always be,
But if you want, I'll set you free.
For now you know, "The true me."

Jerry Anderson



Life?

The birth of a planet
The coming of life
A beautiful world
Without any strife.
  A planet that's free
  Of man and his haste
  A planet whose destiny
  Is left up to fate.
The beautiful sun
Shone over this land
This was a place
That met God's every demand.
  Rolling hills
  And a deep blue sky
  The lonely life here
  Would never die.
Here was a place
Of no future or past
The beauty of life
Forever would last.
  No concrete walls
  Or buildings of stone
  Here was Nature
  And nature — alone.
Then came Man
With his hate and disgust
He ruined that planet
He turned it to dust.
  Up came buildings
  Pollution and smog
  The clean blue sky
  Had turned to fog.
Bit by bit
He ruined that planet
The green grass of life
Had turned to granite.
  Man didn't care
  Where he set up his home
  He destroyed the place
  Where animals once roamed.
He warred with his neighbors
His enemies, his friends soon he would put
All life to an end.
  Now man has created
  Both hatred and strife
  The death of a planet
  The ending of life.

Me, A Tree

Between my branches thick and wide,
  A squirrel or bird may safely hide.
A creature's nest-home I will hold,
  And secrets there are mine untold.

My stalwart trunk looms straight and proud,
  And touches underneath the clouds.
Yet never will I lose the ground,
  For there my nourishment is found.

My roots are sturdy, steadfast, keen!
  They grip the soil and go unseen.
The shad I offer sees no gloom —
  My shadow's ease is sunshine's doom.
I hear the people strolling by,
  There useless talk is quick to fly,
But not a one of them can find
  The way into my lofty mind.

Oh, if a person I could be,
  I'd never lose my sense of tree.
I'd find a way to stand so high,
  And keep my head in touch with sky.
For men are fond of high delight,
  And I am in a constant flight.

What Is Beautiful?

Everyone has different ideas concerning beauty. The artist finds a recognized masterpiece attractive; the writer is awed by the passion of the printed page; and the housewife seeks the radiance of a clean and properly furnished home. To these, and all human beings, beauty is merely a matter of interest. When a person is interested in something to a great extent, it becomes an object of beauty.

Since everyone does not possess the same personality, a universal judgement of the composition of beauty cannot be made. Webster defines beauty as "a combination of graces and charms pleasing to the eye or gratifying to the other senses." Each person's sensory structure varies, therefore, by Webster's definition, it can be concluded that beauty if found in accordance with the personal tastes of individuals.

What is beautiful? The answer to this question is different for everyone who is asked. Beauty is a personal element that makes life less dull, and mankind more attentive. Most important, it matters not what a man feels is beautiful, but rather that he is capable of finding beauty. After all, the stay on earth is too short for the splendor of loveliness to be overlooked.

HAPEVILLE — It was discovered by members of the press that the "Hornet" is a valuable asset to the school's success. Overseen by Mr. Rodney Chatham, the novice staff worked by selling ads and composing articles, to produce a periodical which is the representative of the school. This year the position of editor was held jointly by Tracy Young and Cindy Glozier.

Quill and Scroll — Communicating!

The life of a Quill and Scroll student involves writing, photography, and (of course) problems — meeting and not meeting deadlines, never having enough ads or money, and advisers trying to keep everyone working. But in the end the creative expression is revealed (and sometimes reviled) — a finished newspaper and yearbook.

The 1975-75 Quill and Scroll members included, (L. TO R.) FIRST ROW, Gary St. John, Jeff Foxworthy, Jimmy Lovern, Paul O'Daniel, Richard Jones, Carl Dawkins. SECOND ROW, Ruth Fries, Jesse Brantley, Kristy Smith, Joyce Jordan, Lori Blount, Sallie Watkins, Robin Melton, Jane Randolph, Ali Mehrabi. THIRD ROW, Trenette Thompson, Tracey Young, Cindy Glozier, Bobby Hudson.

The school spirit at H.H.S. was fantastic this year. And thanks to the leadership of Student Council, Homecoming Week was a big success. Class competition stimulated nearly everyone, and the school was decorated as never before. The Powder Puff Football Game was played for the first time in four years. Another popular event was the Sadie Hawkins Day, climaxed by a dance. The president of Student Council was Terry Evans. There were also two new advisors: Mr. Kirk Elliott and Mrs. Carol Hope.

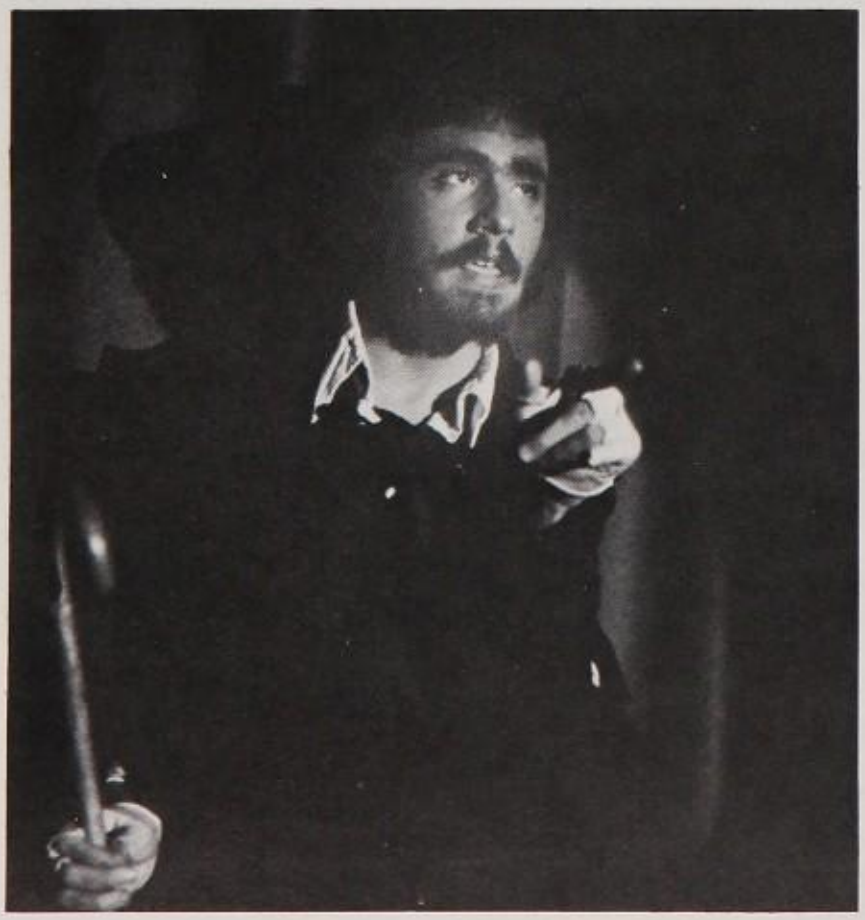
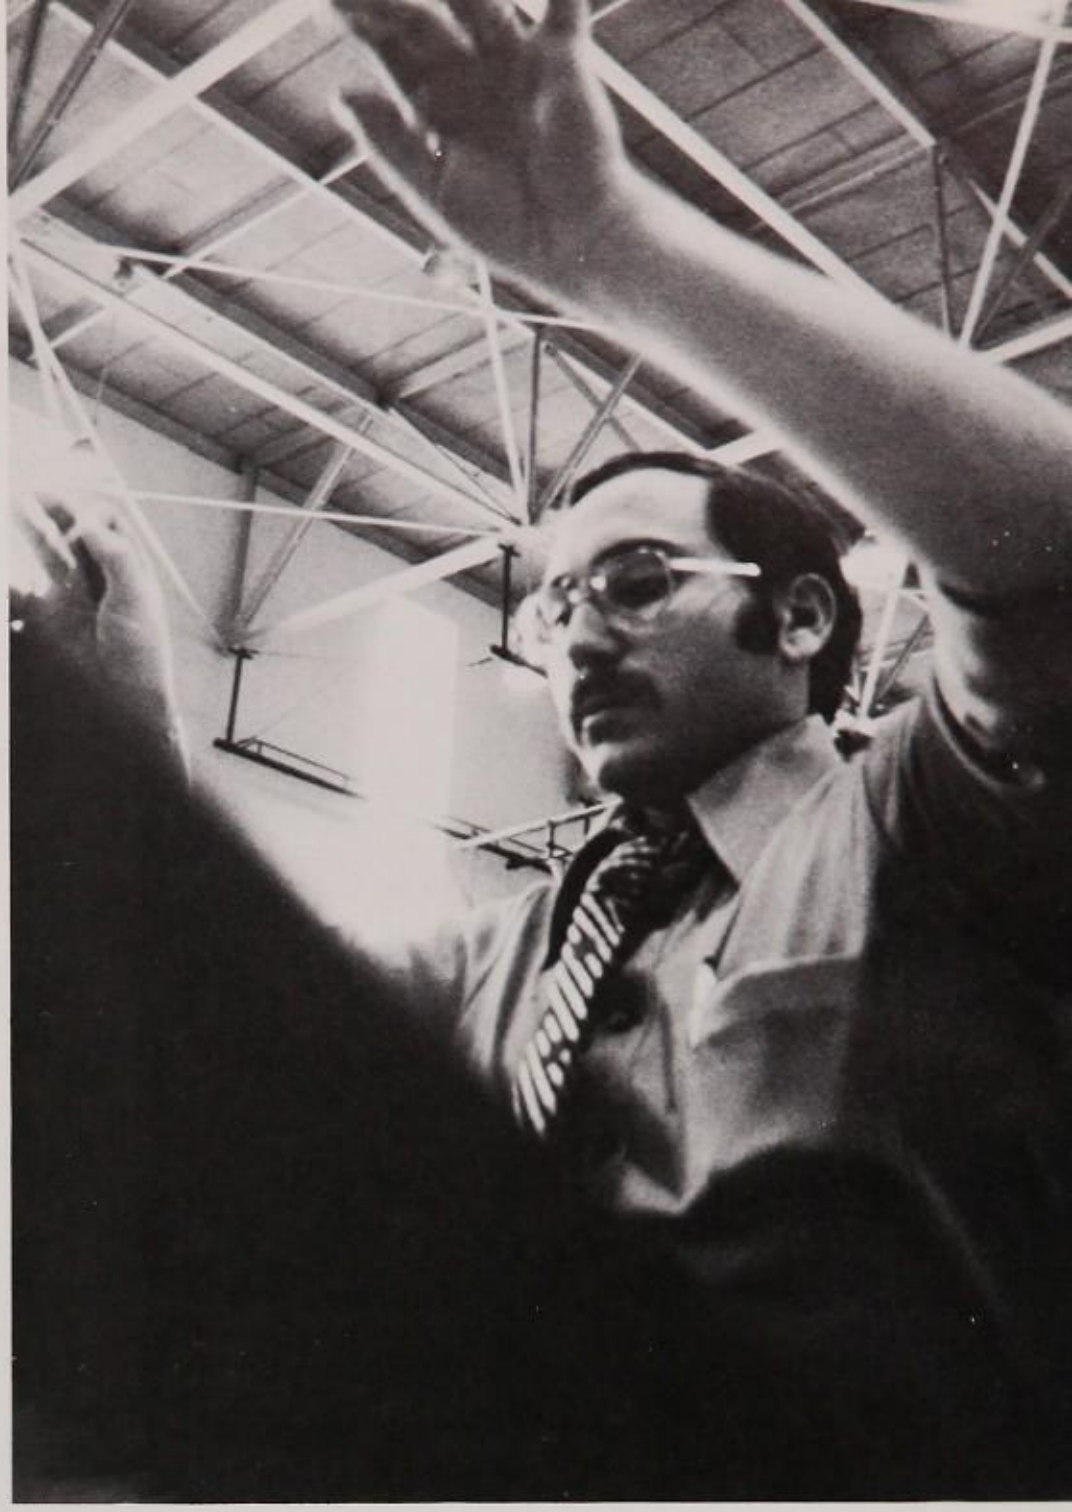
Stivers' Students Stage "Oliver!"

Putting on "Oliver!" with a cast of amateurs? Bah! Humbug! Maybe for most, but not for David Stivers, with the help of his wife Judy, whose students, from J. Wells Elementary School were also involved. For three nights in early December, the auditorium rang with the sounds of "Oom Pah Pah," "As Long As He Needs Me," " Pick A Pocket Or Two," and more. Over forty students depicted everything from drunks and workhouse boys to undertakers and nursemaids. In the "Oliver!" cast the motto was, "Consider Yourself At Home!"



Band Denotes Stamina.

Terror? According to band members, you've never felt it until you've come to band in a less than dedicated mood. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde? He lives and breathes in the person of Jay R. Wucher, band director. Well, if it is so tough and the director is so "mean," why belong? some ask. Perhaps it is because people hold most dear that which they pay for most dearly.



Military Area Renovated

Military underwent a few changes and was involved in more activities this year. A whole new look to the military office and rifle range was added through the installation of carpet and wood paneling and the lowering of the ceiling. The renovation went hand-in-hand with Hapeville's becoming Jr. R.O.T.C. County Head Quarters.

The Empty Stocking Fund, Annual Formal Inspection, and the Flag Raising Ceremony along with a few Drill Team performances, Color Guard presentations, and an extra curricular trip to Fort Benning were among the year's events.

Beautiful? It Depends

Most people would agree that Hapeville High School is not the world's most physically attractive building. Yet many of these same people would undoubtedly call the place beautiful. Why? Because they love it. After all, isn't beauty in the eye of the beholder?

IOR

Beginning Monday and terminating with Friday's 28-27 victory over Loganville, the festivities made this homecoming the most spirited one in current history. Highlighting the half-time program was the presentation of the court and the crowning of Denise Ivie as the 1974 homecoming queen.

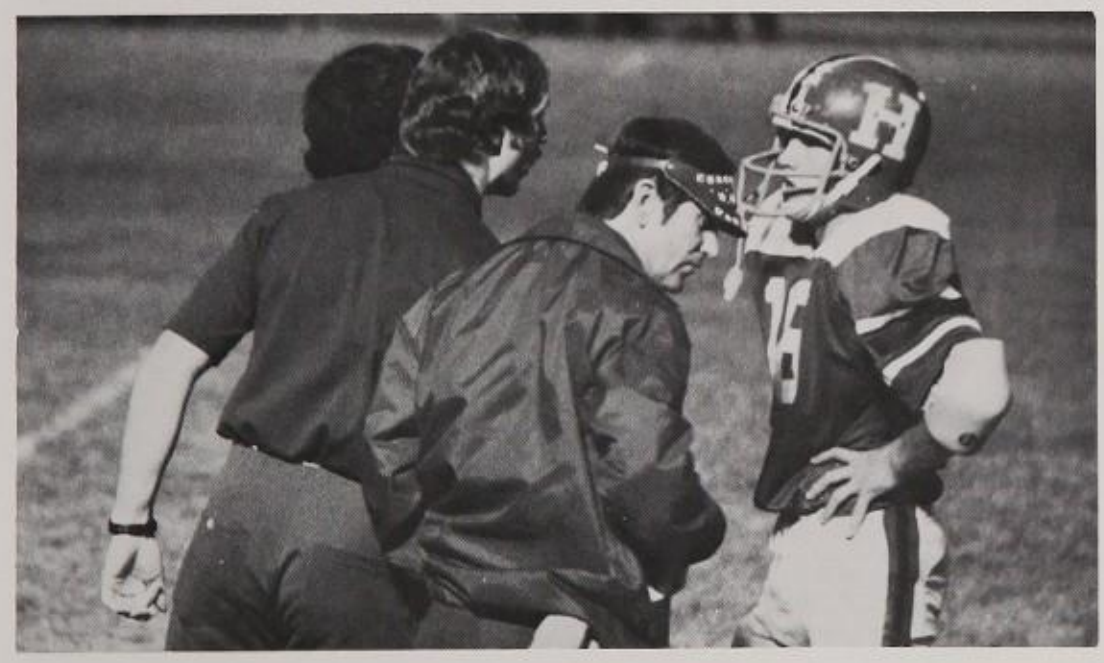
Homecoming Brings Life to Hapeville



Students are supposedly in school to learn. We struggle through chemistry, algebra, and English. But we absorb much more than "booklearning." We learn to celebrate our victories and live with our defeats. We explore love through our first romances. We learn to accept responsibility and value our freedom.

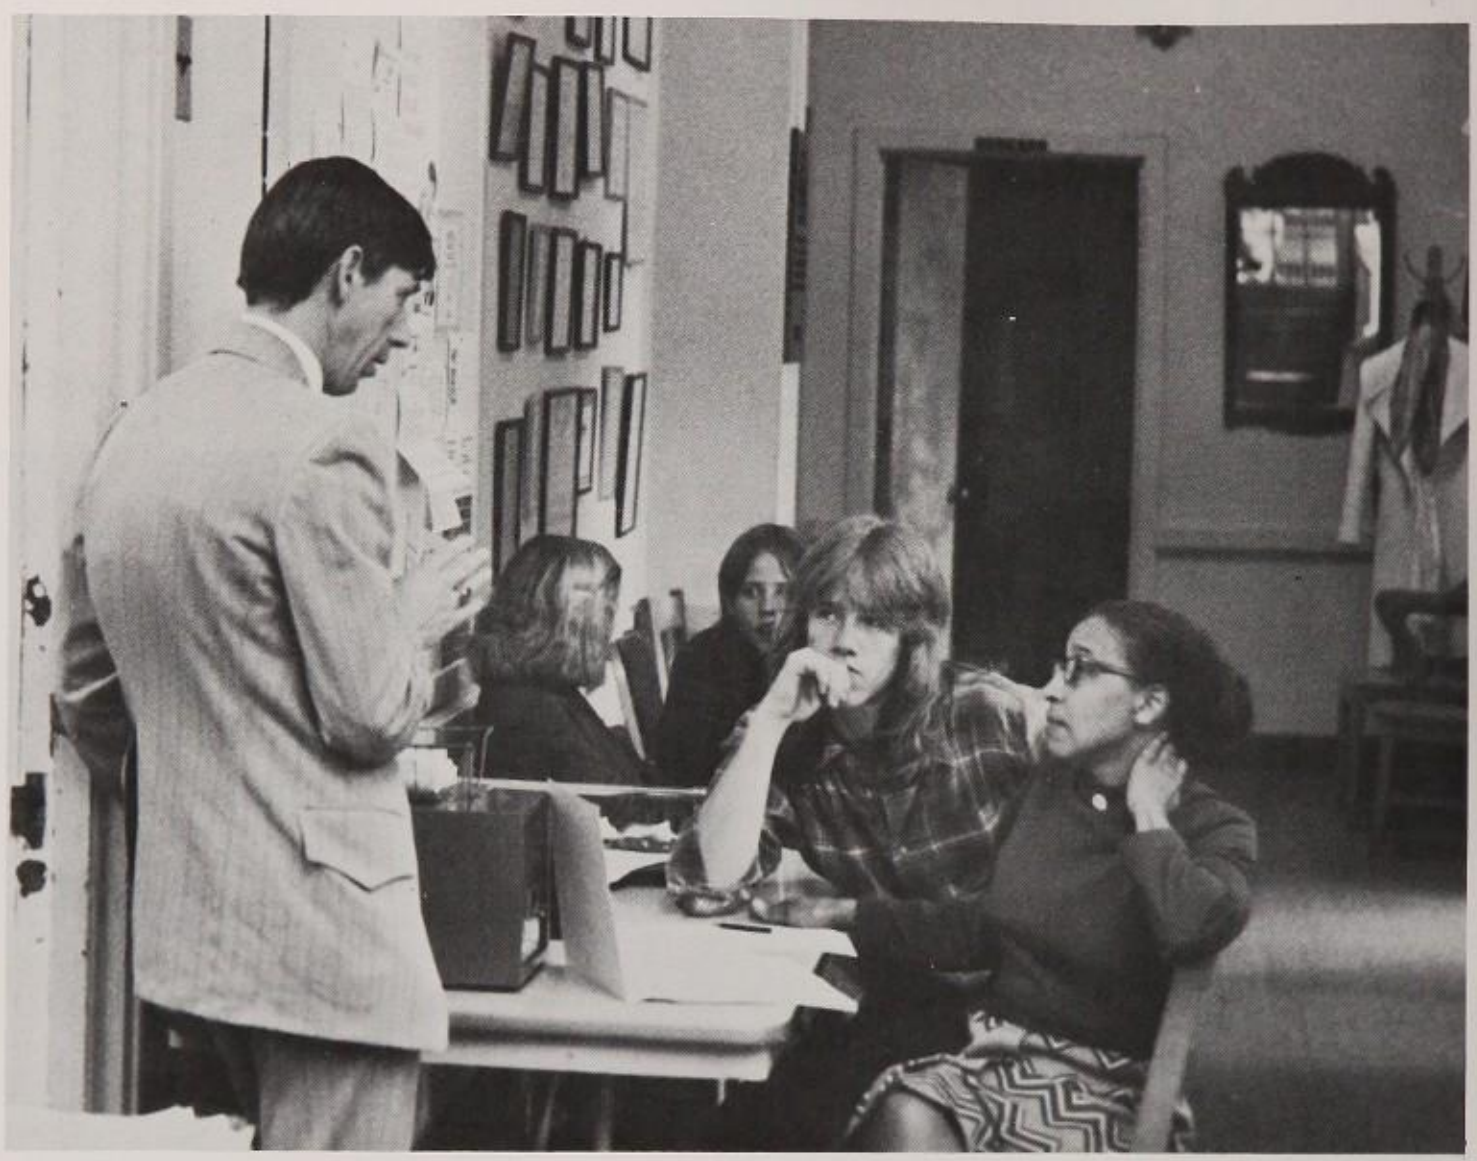
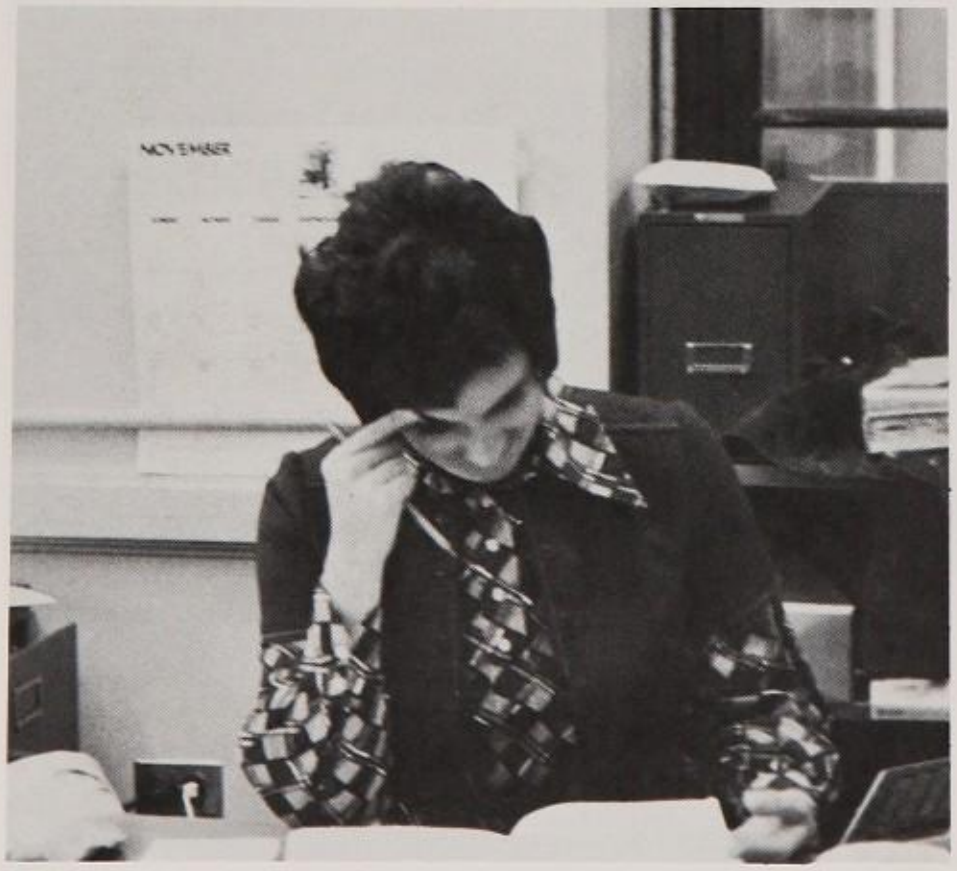
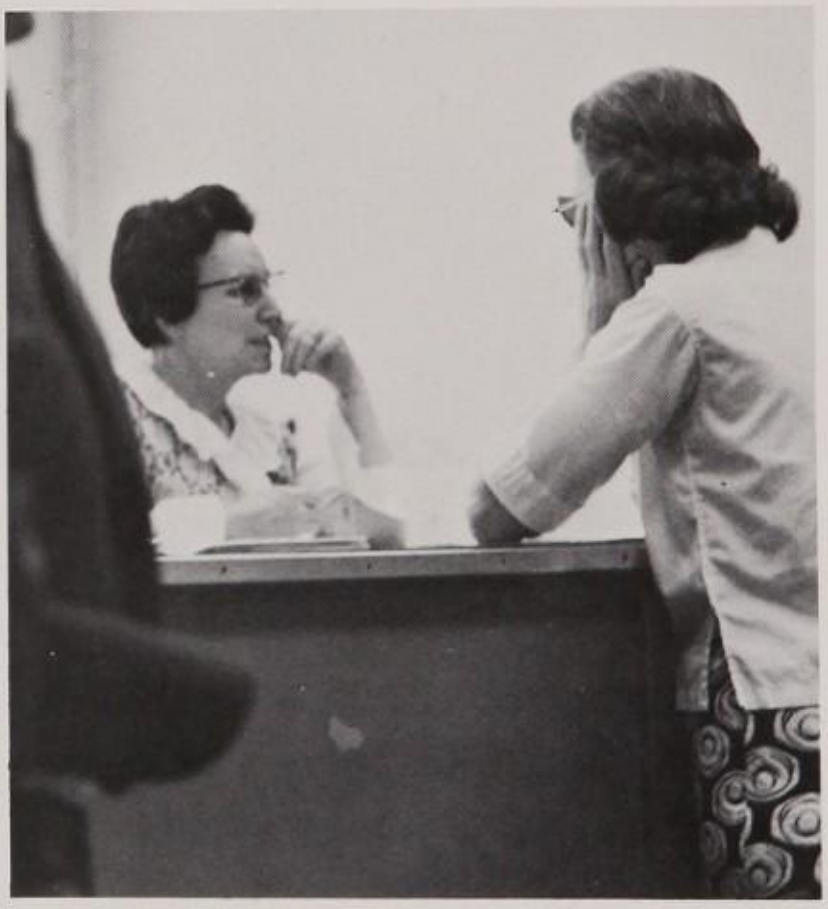
Administration Tackles New Policies







Mr. John Givens presided again in August, 1974, as principal, when the doors of Hapeville High tore down the summer cob-webs. The installation of the new ten-day absentee policy highlighted the school year during the second quarter.

Faculty Turnover Small

The faculty's open-minded ideas have an unusual but important, noteworthy goal: to make H.H.S. more diverse, flexible, and responsive to a student's own capacity of imagination.

A relatively small faculty turnover from 1973-74 aided in a smooth beginning of academic 1974-75. New faces appearing this year were Mrs. Ellen Widener in Home Economics, Mrs. Martha Hamilton in the English Dept., and Miss Ellen Mitchell in the Math Dept.

Senior Spirit Never Dies!!! . . .

Surviving school long enough to become, at long last, a senior means —
Enduring Mrs. Parramore,
Getting senior privileges???,
Being grossed-out, on purpose, for the last time,
Having an illegal Sadie Hawkins marriage,
Picking your favorite girl to be your senior football sponsor,
Trying to be heard at the pep rally with only fifteen yelling people;
Looking to the future when we will be:
Among the youngest citizens in the United States ever to vote in a presidential election,
Furthering our education or working at our chosen careers;
Knowing we can never return, as students, to H.H.S.

Hapeville's Junior Junction

"Work" is short for "junior" and anyone who has been there knows: car washes, bake sales, doughnuts, homecoming corsages, candy, and magazines, to name a few. But the satisfaction of success is sufficiently rewarding: a fantastic prom and just earning the title of senior. The anticipation of a senior year makes being a junior well worthwhile.

Sophomore means —
Being a walking contradiction!
Wanting that certain senior football player to notice you but dying when he does . . .
Hoping she'll ask you to the Junior-Senior but dreading the moment when you walk her to the door . . .
Acting like you know everything —
and wishing that you did.

Strangers in a Strange Land

Entering H.H.S. on the lowest ring of the academic ladder is:
Running everywhere,
Adjusting to new environment,
Making new friends and enemies,
Trying to make themselves known and heard,
Looking for books lost two weeks ago,
Being pushed around by upperclassmen,
Yelling at a pep rally;
Looking toward to the time of being first in something.

The Community College of the Air Force (a degree of difference)

It's a fact the average college man or woman makes more money during his working life. Seems to contribute more to his employer. Goes further on the job.

We would like you to know about the new Community College of the Air Force. It's made up of seven major Air Force vocational schools and incorporates courses from more than 700 colleges and universities located on or near Air Force bases. Everyone (that's right, everyone) qualifies for admission as soon as he finishes basic training.

The Community College of the Air Force offers you the opportunity to earn a Career Education Certificate in one of more than 80 job-related majors. You can also take advantage of other Air Force programs to get a four-year degree while you're still with us.
